Neeley School of Business

Alcon Career Center Industry-Specific Resume Guidance

Accomplishment Statements

What are they?

Accomplishment Statements = the bullet points on your resume

When should you use them?

Any time you are including a work, volunteer, student organization, military, or research experience.

What should they do?

Tell your reader what you did in the role, how you did it, and the results/impact you achieved.

- Use quantifiable data when possible: how many people? how much money?
- Be specific: what content were you working with? What topics were you focused on?

Try using the X,Y,Z method: X = what you did; Y=how you did it; Z= the results/impact

Example: Student Organization Role

Before: Worked with team to increase membership.
After: Led a 4-person team to increase membership by 100%, from 50 to 100 members, by creating a comprehensive social media campaign through Facebook and Instagram.

Example: Volunteer Work

Before: Served food to over 100 people at the local shelter.
After: Negotiated with university administration to repurpose and distribute over 50lbs of food from the university dining system to the local homeless shelter, providing sustenance for over 100 people.

Example: Internship Experience

Before: Wrote manual for Human Resource team.
After: Sourced research-based content for 50-page manual created alongside a team of three Directors to educate 150 personnel on diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging (DEIB) initiatives.

Example: Military Experience

Before: Taught courses to military personnel.
After: Facilitated annual Operational Stress Management and Suicide Prevention curriculum to 2,500+ military personnel, resulting in a workforce that can identify, address, and mitigate stressors.

Ask yourself these questions while building your accomplishment statements. Did you:

- Work independently, on a team, or closely with a supervisor/colleague?
- What specific tools were you using while in that experience to execute on plans and needs?
- Take the initiative to address any issues or problems?
- Make any recommendations for process improvement?
- Fold in additional knowledge sets, content, or data points?
- Train others toward an organizational goal/purpose?
- Bring together diverse populations, or serve a greater community?